Your Kids on Yoga

Today's kids live in a go-go-go type of world where school pressures, incessant lessons, video games, and competitive sports take over their lives. You wouldn't think that all these items listed above would be stresses for our children, but often they are. Yoga has been found to help counteract these stressors and provide a more calming environment. When children learn techniques for self-health, relaxation, and inner fulfillment, they are better prepared for life's many challenges. Yoga at an early age encourages self-esteem and body awareness while also enforcing self-soothing and calming techniques

Children derive enormous benefits from yoga. Physically, it enhances their flexibility, strength, coordination, and body awareness. In addition, their concentration and sense of calmness and relaxation improves.

Doing yoga, children exercise, play, connect more deeply with the inner self, and develop an intimate relationship with the natural world that surrounds them. Yoga brings that marvelous inner light that all children have to the surface.

Parents may notice how yoga benefits their kids, but the best judges are the kids themselves. Children who have practiced yoga tell teachers and parents that they are able to concentrate better during the day, focus better on their activities, and pay attention to their tasks -- all the finest endorsements.
